Standing Committee Reports

- Civic Affairs Committee

The Tyson's tunnel support group continues to try and rally support from Fairfax County. Also, part of the overall development plan will be for the Dulles Toll Road to be turned over to the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority with monies being used to finance, in part, expanding Metro out to the airport.

- Community Facilities Committee

No report.

- Membership and Hospitality

Wade Herren, who grew up in the neighborhood, has purchased a house on Sycamore and has joined the Civic Association. Membership is gearing up to distribute the Directory. It should be to the printer by early January and out to neighbors by February 1.

- Programs and Social/Youth Activity Committee

Michael Jaworek had seven Santa visits with Norm Atkins as Santa. Toys were collected and given to charity 19th. Kim Meminger and Colleen Brewer have volunteered to organize. Patience Herren also volunteered. Will place call for homes and gardens to be featured.

- Providence District Council
The last meeting was a holiday party. An award was given to "The Cookie Lady" who has baked 50,000 cookies for the troops overseas.
- Runner
Reception has been very positive for the Holiday 2006 issue. The theme for the Winter 2007 issue is "favorite recipes." Vicki noted that for recent issues, she and Haleh have been able to depend on a very small handful of contributors but must beg, plead, and cajole other neighbors to contribute. She asked the board for suggestions and submissions by the January 19th deadline. Catherine Johnston challenged the Board to take new residents (less than two years in the neighborhood) under their wing and encourage submissions.
- Website/Listserv
So far, the neighborhood Google user group has 160 people in attendance and seems to be running fairly smoothly.

Old Business

- None.

New Business

- Michael Jaworek mentioned that he is starting the youth activity planning and needs some volunteers to help. More to come for the next meeting.

Respectfully submitted,
Victoria Schillinger
Secretary
